COMMENT OF THE DAY

Dark Future

IF the revolt of the Polish workers has been less spectacular than that of the Hungarians (though the insurrection may yet have to fully manifest itself) its basic underlying causes are similar, and to that extent reflect the bitter discontent which the people of both countries feel with the regimes under which they have had to suffer so long. National feeling and national tradition contributed to the revolts, but they also had economic causes. In Poland it was industrial unrest that touched off the chain reaction which started with the Poznan riots. The masses had been driven to desperation by intolerable conditions: low wages, long hours, shortage of food, shortage of housing, and shortage of consumer goods.

THE root cause of the trouble in Poland and Hungary is this: that ever since the take-over by the Communist puppets, the economies of the two countries have been geared and organized, not to meet the needs of the people, but to meet the requirements and demands of the Soviet Union. Hence the demands, which have still to be met, for economic reforms and the ending of Russian domination.

Nor is that the whole of the story. The economic policies which even an independent Polish Communist regime would certainly have followed would have been in themselves disastrous enough. The agrarian system has brought about a considerable reduction in production per acre in comparison with "pre-war" levels. The concentration of heavy industry is largely responsible for the shortage of consumer goods. The inefficiency of a top-heavy bureaucracy, and its inevitable corruption, appear to be an endemic disease of Communism. On top of this there has been Russian exploitation of which the Poles and Hungarians are acutely conscious.

It is from such political and economic shackles which the peoples of Poland and Hungary wish to free themselves. The Hungarians expressed their demands more forcibly and more hastily than the Poles, with the painful result that Russia has shown she is more determined than ever to hold Hungary in bondage, and, if possible, to deny any semblance of liberal reforms. The Poles have acted with more circumspection, but have still to realize their real aims. The future for both countries is grim and menacing.

IKE IS AGAIN PRESIDENT

The Smile Of A Winner

EISENHOWER

Wins Landslide Victory Over Stevenson GIVEN HUGE MAJORITY

Washington, Nov. 7. President Eisenhower won re-election today in a landslide which may even eclipse his 1952 victory. Eisenhower's margin was growing by the minute. At 1.28 p.m. HKT the figures were: Eisenhower 15,599,491; Stevenson, 11,897,033; Andrews, 80,851. Eisenhower was leading in 41 states having 459 electoral votes; Stevenson in 7 states having 72 electoral votes. Necessary to elect: 266. The vote was from 63,175 of 154,791 precincts. With more than 27 million ballots counted—about two-fifths of the total expected vote—Eisenhower had an overwhelming lead over Democrat Adlai Stevenson in both popular and electoral votes.

STUDENTS' ATTACK EMBASSY

Soviet Envoy Found Locked In Cellar

Luxembourg, Nov. 6. The Soviet Ambassador to Luxembourg was found by Police—in full dress uniform—locked in a cellar after two thousand students stormed and set fire to the Embassy tonight.

The mass of students surged on the Embassy—it was a Legation until recently—just as guests were beginning to arrive for a party to celebrate tomorrow's "October Revolution" day.

The Ambassador, Mr. Yvan Mikulnik, took refuge in the cellar as the demonstrators fired some of the Embassy and burnt furniture, including a portrait of Mrs. Nikita Khrushchev, wife of Russia's top leader.

Students, joined by other demonstrators protesting against Soviet action in Hungary, stormed into the grounds of the "Chateau de Beigen" on the outskirts of Luxembourg, after ripping down railings and attacking police cordons.

Inside the Embassy, two of the party guests and some of the 70 strong Embassy staff, barricaded themselves in the attic with beds and heavy cupboards.

Furniture was hurled from the windows and set alight. Flames enveloped a car in the grounds. Then the fire brigade was called in.

Demonstrators also hung dishes full of cocktail snacks through the windows.

ARMY CALLED OUT

The Luxembourg army was eventually called out but the demonstrators dispersed before they arrived.

M. Joseph Bech, Prime Minister of Luxembourg, who drove to the Embassy immediately on hearing of the demonstration, said the Luxembourg government would pay for all the damage.

He added: "I cannot believe that Luxembourg students act like this. Other elements must have infiltrated among them."

M. Bech told reporters: "This is terrible. Tell the world we will apologise to the Soviet government immediately." —Reuter.

Charges Annulled

Warsaw, Nov. 6. Outstanding indictments in the Poznan courts arising out of the riots on June 28 have been annulled, together with cases under investigation, by the local prosecutor's office.

The Prosecutor General has also given instructions that all cases should be revised.—Reuter.

WITHDRAW ALL FORCES RESOLUTION

New York, Nov. 6. The United Nations General Assembly will be urged in an emergency session tonight to call on Britain and France to withdraw all their troops from Egypt and to demand that Israel return to the old armistice lines.

A resolution, drafted at a long private conference of the African-Asian countries today, would also ask the Secretary-General to report back within 24 hours of its adoption on the degree of compliance by the Eisenhower had 57 per cent of the popular vote at 1.30 p.m. HKT compared with a final figure of 55 per cent in his 1952 win over Stevenson.

But the Eisenhower political magic was not necessarily rubbing off on Republican Congressional candidates. Democrats were waging a close battle to retain control of the National Legislature.

At 1.30 p.m. HKT, Republicans had won six Senate races and were leading in 11 others. Democrats had won 9 Senate seats and were leading in 8.

May Hold Edge

With 30 Republican and 31 Democratic holdovers, this pointed to a new Senate in which the Democrats would hold their present 49 to 47 edge. But many key races were very close and the outcome was far from certain.

In House contests, Republicans were sure of 57 seats and were leading for 118 others. Democrats had 127 seats and were leading for 53.

Republicans had wrested away three seats previously held by Democrats and were leading for 18 others. Democrats were leading in 13 districts now represented by Republicans.

President Eisenhower swept to victory in New York state today, apparently by a greater margin than in 1952.

With more than two-thirds of the state's 11,132 districts tabulated, the vote from 8,528 districts was: Eisenhower 3,007,461; Stevenson, 2,126,797. Eisenhower defeated Adlai Stevenson in heavy voting in Rhode Island.

Ike also won an impressive victory in pivotal Massachusetts tonight to capture the state's 10 electoral votes.

Eisenhower carried Maryland by a bigger margin than he did four years ago.

With returns almost complete, Eisenhower piled up a margin of more than 170,000 votes compared to the 104,000 vote margin by which he took the state in 1952.

Southern Gains

Pointing out the Eisenhower sweep, the President took early two of the four southern states he carried in 1952—Florida and Virginia—and was leading in the two others, Tennessee and Texas. He was in front in a fifth southern state, Louisiana.

Returns from the 29 governor races showed three Democrats definitely elected—Luther Hodges in North Carolina, Price Daniel in Texas and Orval Faubus in Arkansas.

Republican Harold Handley won the governorship in Indiana.

Democratic gubernatorial candidates held sizable leads in Florida, Illinois, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, and Missouri. Republicans were well ahead in Ohio and Vermont. Other races were still comparatively tight.

Wins 16 States

By 1 p.m. HKT, the President had won: Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Indiana, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont and Virginia.

Stevenson had won: Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee and South Carolina.

SOVIET "VOLUNTEERS" FOR EGYPT, REPORT

London, Nov. 7. Writing in today's Daily Express, the paper's political correspondent says he learns Britain wants a United Nations force of between ten and 15 thousand men to maintain the freedom of passage through the Suez Canal and to keep the Israelis and Egyptians apart.

The Americans, he says, are being urged to land marines at the southern end of the Canal—to balance Anglo-French forces already in possession of Port Said and the neighbouring town of Fuad.

Marks says it must be stressed that such immediate action under the auspices of the United Nations is regarded as absolutely essential by Britain and France.

Intelligence reports reaching London, Paris and Washington on Tuesday indicated that Russian "volunteers" were preparing to move in to oppose the Anglo-French forces in Egypt. The reports indicated Soviet land, air and sea "volunteer" forces.

Britain Announces "Ceasefire Now In Effect"

London, Nov. 7. Britain announced that a ceasefire went into effect early today in the Middle Eastern war zone. But the government-controlled Cairo Radio, broadcasting late last night said Egypt had accepted a ceasefire on five conditions which included the withdrawal of foreign troops from Egypt.

The British government-operated Voice of Britain radio on Cyprus announced in a broadcast at 2.15 a.m. beamed to Egypt.

A ceasefire has been arranged between the Allied and Egyptian forces. It came into force at 2.3 a.m. That is a few minutes ago.

STIPULATION

"Inhabitants of Port Said and Port Fuad and other places where Allied forces are established are strongly advised to remain where they are for the present."

Earlier the Cairo Radio had said: "It should be recalled that the (ceasefire) resolution to which Egypt agreed stipulates the immediate withdrawal of foreign troops from Egyptian soil."

"We will wipe out every one of them. Every inch of Egyptian soil will be their tomb."

The French Defence Ministry announced in Paris that Anglo-French forces "are occupying the greater part of the length" of the 101-mile Canal Zone.

The French spokesman said 95 per cent of the Soviet-equipped Egyptian Air Force had been destroyed and the Egyptian Navy neutralised.

Arab and Asian nations asked the United Nations, meanwhile, to call for the immediate withdrawal of all British, French and Israeli forces from Egypt. —United Press.

Radio Appeal

In what was regarded as a "cover-up" story for forces already in transit, Moscow Radio on Tuesday called for "volunteers" in what was described as "this historically decisive hour when the greatest values of mankind's inheritance are at stake."

London diplomats, Derek Marks states, believe Bulgarian's threats have awakened the American government to the dangers which Britain and France have always said existed in the Middle East.—London Express Service.

STOP PRESS

Ike Wins 272 Electoral Votes

Washington, Nov. 7. President Eisenhower at 2.03 p.m. HKT had definitely won in 22 States with 272 electoral votes. That was six more than the 266 needed for election. Illinois put Eisenhower over.

Eisenhower won Adlai Stevenson's home State of Illinois today and his victory appeared to be developing into a landslide.—United Press.

STEVENSON CONCEDES

Chicago, Nov. 7. The Democratic candidate, Mr. Adlai Stevenson, has conceded the victory to Mr. Eisenhower.—United Press.

Mollet Rebuffs Soviet Premier

Paris, Nov. 6.

M. Guy Mollet, the French Premier, tonight sent a note to Marshal Nikolai Bulganin, the Soviet Premier, contesting the right of Russia to threaten France about the use of long range weapons.

M. Mollet wrote: "I doubt whether the existing situation can be clarified by the employment of threats and evocation of the possibility of long range weapons."

"On the other hand, I also doubt whether the Soviet Government has all the authority necessary to express pity about innocent blood when, owing to this same government, this blood is spreading in floods in Hungary."

Later, in the three-page note to Marshal Bulganin the French Premier said: "In the Middle East France is ready to accept a definitive ceasefire as soon as a similar determination is expressed by Israel and Egypt and as soon as the international force decided upon by the United Nations is in a position to carry out the task allotted to it." — Reuters.

AGA'S BUST ALMOST READY

Paris, Nov. 7.
American sculptor Nison Tregor today put the finishing touches on a bust of the Aga Khan, at his Paris studio.

The Aga sat for Tregor five times for one hour at a time but the sculptor worked the remainder of the time from photographs. Three casts of the bust will be made for the Aga Khan himself, a second for Prince Ali Khan and the third for Princess Andree.

Tregor recently did a bust of General Alfred H. Gruenther, Supreme Allied Commander in Europe. — France-Press.

Plea For Aid For Hungarian Refugees

Paris, Nov. 7.
Mr Charles H. Jordan, President of the Standing Conference of Voluntary Agencies, working for refugees, tonight appealed for private and inter-governmental aid for the Hungarian Government in the "titanic job" of meeting the sudden influx of 10,000 Hungarian refugees.

Mr Jordan said the help already flowing into Austria "should be utilised in a more effective co-ordinated fashion than has been possible hitherto."

Mr Jordan, on his return from a visit to Vienna, said that everything possible was being done for the refugees.

"But the facilities and manpower of the Austrian Government agencies are not sufficient and the great potentialities of the voluntary agencies must be made fully available." — France-Press.

MIXED TORY REACTION TO CEASEFIRE ORDER But Unlikely Members Will Vote Against Government

By FRASER WIGHTON

London, Nov. 6.

Reaction of Conservatives to Sir Anthony Eden's "cease-fire in Egypt" announcement ranged from relief among a majority to anger among some—with no immediate sign that any would vote against the Prime Minister.

According to some Government supporters, the Prime Minister has been under considerable pressure from his backbenchers in the past few days to bring an end to a situation which has been causing mounting concern among them.

Certain of them suggested there had been strong divisions of opinion in the Government itself—of which the resignation last week of Mr Anthony Nutting, Minister of State at the Foreign Office, was only one symptom.

There is evidence of general relief that they have done so rather than adhere strictly to the declared intention of seizing the towns of Ismailia and Suez in addition to Port Said.

The military action against Egypt has been freely attacked by many sections of British opinion since it was first announced a week ago.

Later Hagerly said that one question discussed at the meeting was that of organising American transportation for the proposed United Nations international police force for the Middle East.

The crisis in Hungary was also examined by President Eisenhower and his advisers. — Reuters & France-Press.

Italians Brawl Over Hungary

Rome, Nov. 6.
Fist fights and violent exchanges of insults broke out in the Italian Parliament today when Foreign Minister Gaetano Martino made an allusion in his speech to recent events in Hungary.

All the other members of Parliament rose when Hungary was mentioned but the Communists remained seated.

In the bitter recriminations that followed, a Communist member hurled invective at Pietro Nenni, leader of the left-wing Socialist Party, several Neo-Fascist members rushed toward the Communist benches and a scuffle began, despite the efforts of ushers to separate the combatants. — France-Press.

New Delhi, Nov. 6.
The Indian Government is to accept the Swiss proposal for a conference of the United States, the United Kingdom, France and India to safeguard peace, authoritative sources said.

The sources said that India was in favour of all initiative which might reduce tension. — France-Press.

Heart Searchings

These sources believed today's four-hour Cabinet meeting produced a culmination of these anxious heart searchings.

A proportion of the "Suez group" of Conservatives who have enthusiastically supported the policy of military intervention in Egypt was clearly angered and dissatisfied with Sir Anthony Eden's statement.

Some saw the development as a fresh boost for Colonel Nasser's prestige.

But there was no immediate indication that any organised large-scale revolt against the Prime Minister was brewing though among the Labour opposition the view was held that the Prime Minister had "climbed down."

Sir Anthony gained a 69 majority for his policy in the House of Commons last week, and tonight got a rousing ovation from most of his supporters after his statement.

But the Labour opposition is expected to put down a fresh censure motion at an early moment which will test the extent of the Prime Minister's backing.

Fully Attained

In announcing a ceasefire before the conditions of last week's Anglo-Egyptian ultimatum were fully attained, both

Seven thousand people who attended a Labour rally in London tonight were told by Miss Margaret Herlson, Member of Parliament and member of the party's national executive that the ceasefire news was "a victorious event for us."

'Won Round'

Sir Tom Williamson, President of the eight million strong Trades Union Congress, said that "the arousing of public opinion over the last seven days by the Labour movement has resulted in the announcement of a ceasefire at midnight tonight."

Mr James Griffiths, deputy leader of the party, was cheered when he said that Labour had been fighting for the "fair name of Britain" and that "we have won the first round."

President Eisenhower today issued a statement in Washington heartily welcoming the announcement of the ceasefire.

The White House spokesman said that President Eisenhower had been given the news of the ceasefire by the British Prime Minister himself.

Over Phone

The spokesman said that Sir Anthony told Eisenhower of the ceasefire over the transatlantic telephone at 1235 hours.

It was President Eisenhower who made the phone call. The White House spokesman, James Hagerly, said the President had returned to Washington at short notice after casting his vote in the presidential elections at Gettysburg.

At 1245 the President called a special meeting of his principal advisers. The announced object of this meeting was to ensure the fullest possible American support for any measure to bring about a ceasefire in the Middle East.

RED MEETING BANNED

Paris, Nov. 6.

The French Ministry of the Interior tonight banned a Communist meeting to be staged on Wednesday in a Paris sports stadium to commemorate the 30th anniversary of the October Revolution.

The French police said that the meeting had been banned because of disturbances to public order, which the meeting and expected counter-demonstrations would inevitably provoke. — France-Press.

Tehran, Nov. 6.

The Prime Minister of Pakistan, Husein Shaheed Suhrawardy, arrived today to attend the Bagdad Pact conference discussing the Middle East situation.

NO ONE TOLD CASEY

Ottawa, Nov. 6. No official information has been received by Australian External Affairs Minister R. G. Casey concerning Egyptian severance of diplomatic relations with Australia, the Australian High Commissioner's office said today.

Casey is here on a three-day visit, conferring with the Canadian Government on international affairs in general and the Middle East situation in particular, prior to attending the United Nations General Assembly's regular session in New York.

The High Commissioner's office said that word of the diplomatic break was received through news agencies at a time when Casey was at lunch, and that he did not know of the move.—United Press.

Franco-German Agreement Reached

Paris, Nov. 6. French and German experts reached a tentative agreement on the European common market and Euratom project during a three-hour meeting here today.

German and French sources here said the agreement was reached at the experts' level while the German Chancellor, Dr. Konrad Adenauer, and the French Premier, M. Guy Mollet, were reviewing the international situation.

Dr. Adenauer was reported ready to leave tonight instead of tomorrow, thus cutting short for the second time his scheduled two-day visit. He had first decided to leave Paris tomorrow instead of Thursday.

SEPARATELY

The experts of the two countries, meeting separately from their government heads, tackled the points which had remained unsettled after the last meeting of the six European nations' Foreign Ministers here last October.

It was expected that M. Mollet and Dr. Adenauer would give their agreement to the texts drawn up by the experts this afternoon before sending them to the other nations involved.

Reports said the question of speeding up German reunification was also discussed by M. Mollet and Dr. Adenauer in view of the international situation. United Press.

In Hungary THOUSANDS OF TANKS GO INTO ACTION

Vienna, Nov. 6. Reliable sources said today the Soviet Union threw an estimated 4,000 tanks and 200,000 troops into Hungary to stamp out the anti-Communist revolt.

Hungarian Nationalists said some Russian soldiers captured by the rebels were drunk or doped.

The Soviets fired on a children's clinic where a number of babies were burned, according to these sources.

The latest information, according to reliable information, was that the Russians had fired on the Yugoslav legation in Budapest yesterday, killing one younger diplomat and wounding several others.

Resisting

According to information received here the Hungarians yesterday morning were resisting Soviet attacks throughout Budapest with heavy shooting by the Soviet tanks.

Targets attacked by tanks or shelled from Gellert Hill were the Hodiak tank barracks, the southern railway station and Szenna Square.

Two Russian tanks were set on fire with Molotov Cocktails thrown by rebels who were still holding these tanks were burned outside the Lasteria Hotel.

Steven Russian tanks and three auxiliary vehicles (carriers) working as patrols shot up the Harminc area.

Hundreds of Hungarian bodies were seen by a Western diplomat in an area near the Killian (Western) barracks which were seized by overwhelming Soviet fire power yesterday morning. Even as the Russians took the barracks, rebels were still shooting from the ruins.

Protests

Later the Russian tanks fired on the children's clinic, ignoring protests against the action by several Western legations.

The protests about the attack on the clinic were made by diplomats to the Soviet Embassy which replied it was "powerless" to halt the attack.

Early yesterday five Russian tanks were destroyed in the Killian district, the sources claimed.

As for the Russians who are captured, the sources said, they were either doped or drunk. When they sobered up they were said to be friendly and willing.

Tanks Firing

Delayed information based on reports said that since Nagy was arrested at the Soviet Embassy which he went there after the Soviet attack.

As of early afternoon on November 4, the Hungarians were continuing to resist. The Russians at that time occupied Buda Square, which includes the important East station. Soviet tanks were firing at surrounding houses.

Killian barracks at around 3 p.m. on November 4 were reported resisting Soviet attacks of tanks, mortars, artillery and infantry. The battle had started about 4 a.m. Budapest time but by early evening the barracks did not answer when telephoned.

Later in the day the rebels held Varshegig Park in Pest. Red Army troops, however, held Andassy Avenue which leads to the park.

Too Early

After the Yugoslav legation was fired upon yesterday, the Yugoslavs had no contact with Belgrade or with James Kadur, the ambassador.

The band had requested the Russians to permit a plane to land near Budapest to evacuate Polish nationals. The Soviet Embassy replied it was "too early" to grant such permission.

A refugee doctor just arrived in Vienna from Hungary reported tonight that Russian troops killed "many" Hungarian Red Cross workers in two attacks on clearly-marked Budapest mercy installations on Sunday.

He said Soviet gunfire killed seven persons in a Red Cross bus and undetermined additional number. "Many" in a separate attack on the main Budapest headquarters of the Hungarian Red Cross.

The Russians directed machinegun fire into the building which is serving as a aid station, and into ambulances and supply trucks parked outside.

Doctors and nurses and volunteers were among the victims.

The doctor said he watched the attack from a vehicle outside the building.

All Hungarians

In other incident, he said, Russian troops foraging for food attacked a Red Cross bus in Alkotás streets. It was headed for the Budapest sport hospital shortly before noon with food and supplies picked up at the South railway terminal.

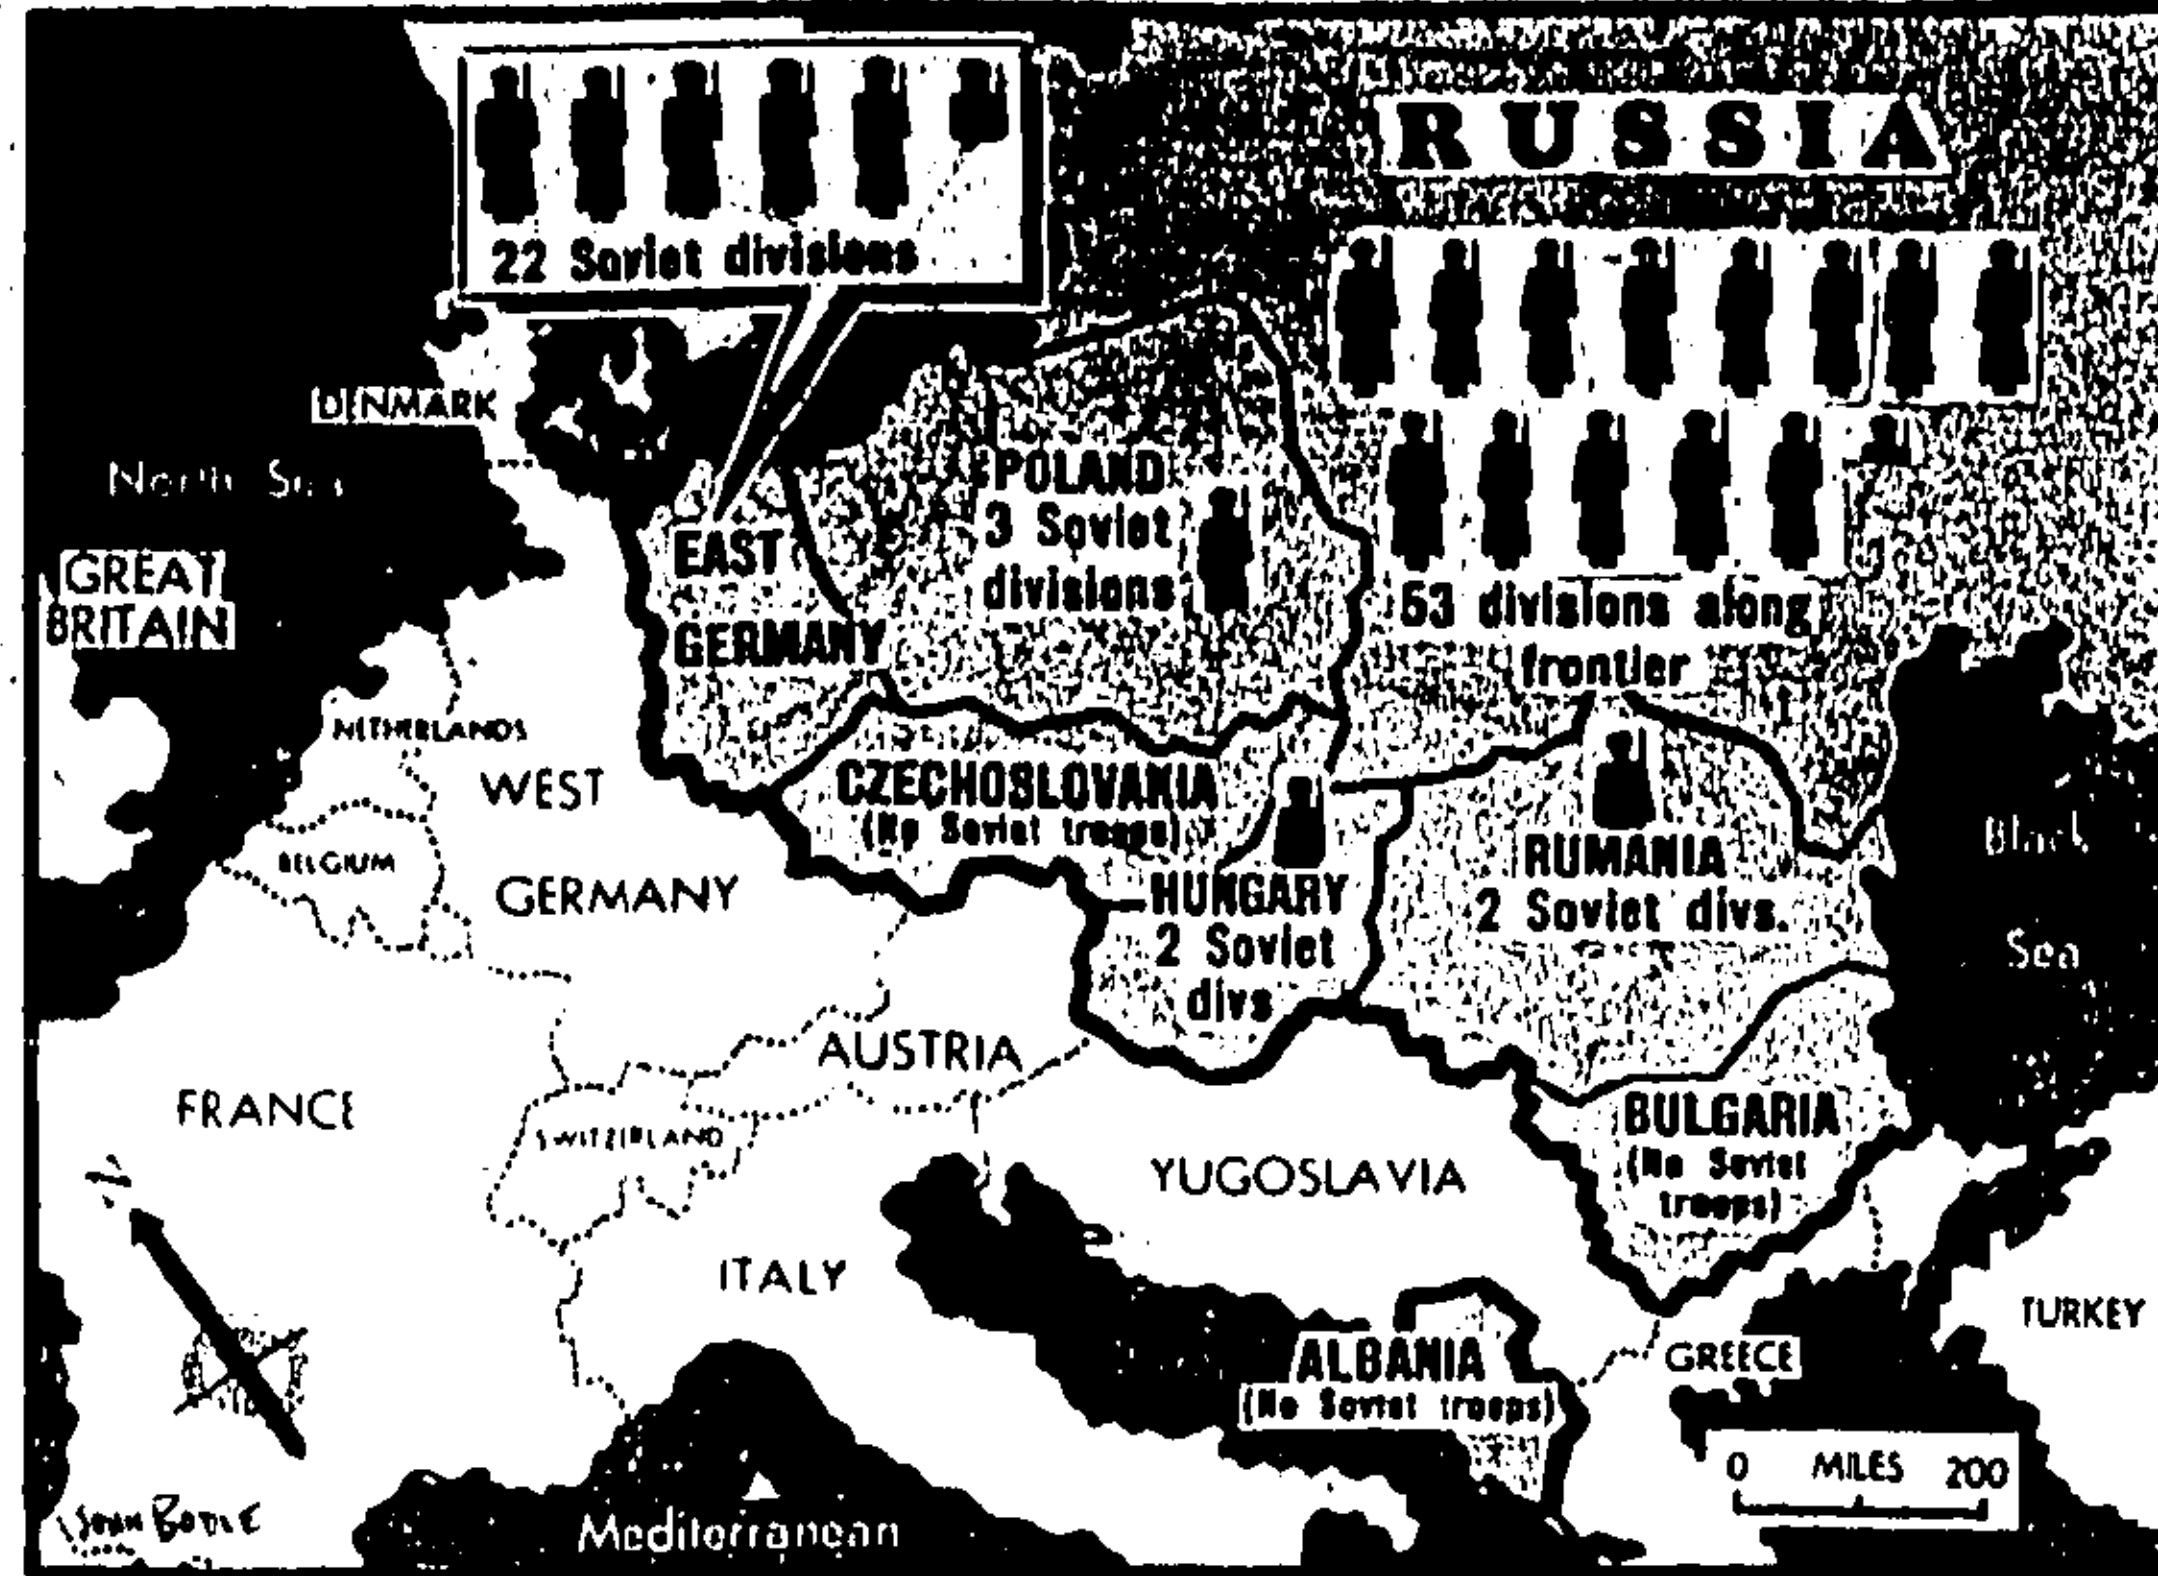

He said one doctor, a medical student, and five Red Cross workers were killed. All were Hungarians.—United Press.

Ex-jockey Fined

Brighton, Nov. 6. Sir Gordon Richards, for years Britain's fastest man on horseback, was fined £2 today for driving his car too fast.

The former champion jockey, now 46, wrote a letter to the court admitting he exceeded 30 m.p.h. in a built-up area.

In addition to the fine, the court endorsed his driving licence.—United Press.

MOROCCAN PEACE STAND

Rabat, Nov. 6. Sultan Mohammed VI of Morocco today told members of the delegation which will leave for New York to represent Morocco at the United Nations that their motto should be "Liberty within peace."

The delegation will be led by Foreign Minister Ahmed Belkacem.

The Sultan said that the delegation's "fundamental aim" should be: "To defend liberty and our solidarity with peoples still dependent or oppressed and to strengthen peace in the world."

The sovereign declared that the United Nations Organisation had "incontestably not achieved all the aims for which it was founded." He expressed his confidence, however, that it would "in the end recover its original way that of serving liberty, peace and understanding between peoples."—France-Press.

Dulles Still Making Progress

Washington, Nov. 6. Secretary of State, John Foster Dulles, today continued following his operation last Saturday, the State Department spokesman said tonight.

Dulles had eaten a little, twice got out of bed to spend 20 minutes in an armchair in his room, and read the newspaper, and latest news dispatches on international events, the spokesman declared.

The Secretary of State twice during the day spoke over the phone with his immediate subordinates at the State Department to whom he gave instructions concerning the current situation.—France-Press.

REFUSED SAFE CONDUCT PASS

Rome, Nov. 6. The Italian Social Democratic Party Secretary, Signor Matteo Matteotti, trapped in wartime Budapest, has refused a Soviet safe conduct unless it is also extended to 14 Italian reporters.

Party sources said here today. They said the Russians offered the pass only to Signor Matteotti, the son of the Socialist leader, Signor Giacomo Matteotti, who was murdered by Fascist henchmen in prison years ago.

Signor Matteotti and the 14 reporters are "trapped in the Italian Legation in Budapest."—United Press.

OVERWHELMING SUPPORT FOR LIM'S SINGAPORE GOVERNMENT

Singapore, Nov. 6. The Legislative Assembly today voted in support of the Lim Yew Hock Government's action in rejecting "subversive elements" in the colony. Voting was 21 to four.

The Chief Minister, Mr. Lim Yew Hock, said that the Government was determined to maintain law and order in the colony and to reject any subversive elements which might threaten the stability of the Government.

THE QUEEN OPENS PARLIAMENT 'Just Settlement In Middle East'

London, Nov. 6. Queen Elizabeth today told a tense and anxious British Parliament that the Government would continue trying for a "prompt and just settlement" of the grave situation in the Middle East.

Opening the new session with a customary speech from the Throne in the House of Lords, the Queen said the "Government will continue its efforts to achieve by all possible means a prompt and just settlement of the many problems arising from the grave situation in the Middle East. To this end they will welcome the broadest measure of co-operation with the Commonwealth and our allies in the Atlantic alliance and Europe and with those international agencies of which the United Kingdom is a member."

The Queen said the Government would continue its efforts to achieve by all possible means a prompt and just settlement of the many problems arising from the grave situation in the Middle East. To this end they will welcome the broadest measure of co-operation with the Commonwealth and our allies in the Atlantic alliance and Europe and with those international agencies of which the United Kingdom is a member.

Cyprus. This was all the Queen said about the Israel-Egypt crisis.

On Cyprus she said "my Ministers while continuing to take measures which unhappily were necessary to deal with terrorist activity, will spare no effort to find a solution to the problems of the island through a new and liberal constitution which will safeguard the rights of all communities and the essential interests of this country and our allies."

Earlier the Queen referred to the forthcoming independence of the Gold Coast saying a "bill will be introduced early in this session granting independence to the Gold Coast under the name of Ghana."

She said orders in Council would provide for a constitution of the new British Caribbean Federation and for the inclusion of a number of elected members in the legislature of British Guiana.

Rent Control

The Government would pursue a policy of adjusting the structure of the armed forces and organisation of home defence to changes in the world situation in the light of scientific and technical advances.

The Queen mentioned proposals for the House of Commons including legislation to amend the dealing with rent control. The proposals were to amend homicide law and limit the scope of capital punishment and reforming the composition of the House of Lords.—Reuter.

Brussels, Nov. 6. About 30 people were injured in anti-Soviet demonstrations staged by Belgian students in front of the Soviet Embassy here today.

The demonstration, which began as a gesture of sympathy with Hungary ended in violent clashes between students and the police.—France-Press.

Late Envoy To Philippines Praised

Washington, Nov. 6. General Carlos Romulo, Philippine Ambassador to the United States, expressed sorrow today over the death in Manila of US Ambassador Albert F. Nufier.

Ambassador Romulo called Mr. Nufier's death "a great loss to the foreign service of the United States."

He added that Mr. Nufier, during the short time since he went to Manila in July, had shown a marked ability to get along with officials.

State Department officials expressed regret and shock over Mr. Nufier's death and President Eisenhower was informed of it before his departure for Gettysburg, where he will vote.

Mrs. Nufier, now in Havana, has planned to hurry to Manila.—France-Press.

ALLIES CLEARING BLOCKED CANAL

Israel Lost 150 Men

Nicosia, Nov. 6. In the actual fighting the latest official Allied communique said that Port Said and Port Fuad were in Allied hands and that the task of clearing the entrance to the Suez Canal—blocked by ships sunk by the Egyptians—had begun.

The siege of Port Said began yesterday when Allied paratroopers were dropped at strategic points.

They were followed today by British Commandos supported by tanks.

Cairo newspapers continued to express the country's determination to resist the Allied intervention and one newspaper Al Sharb Al Sharb, instructed readers to kill any British or French paratrooper before he landed.

Will Fight

Egyptian boys pasted posters all over Cairo bearing the words "I shall fight we shall fight we shall fight."

The latest Egyptian military communique, number 30, broadcast by Beirut Radio and issued in Cairo at 1430 GMT said that "armed forces and people's resistance forces" had fortified themselves in houses and that house to house fighting was going on in several streets of Port Said.

Egyptians said they were digging trenches during the day in Cairo, Alexandria and Canal Zone towns while street fighting raged in Port Said.

An official spokesman announced at noon: "British and French aircraft are still bombing Cairo, Helwan and Suez Canal towns."

Port Said was under constant fire from the air and sea and a military spokesman said adding: "The enemy has cut off the water supply in Port Said."

"High explosive and incendiary bombs were dropped on the civilian population, causing extensive damage and fire to houses. Casualties among civilians, particularly women and children have been heavy."

'Great Numbers'

"It has not been possible to make an exact counting of casualties but hospitals are receiving victims in great numbers every hour."

Over 100 British warships of all types are presently engaged in the operation in Egypt, the British Admiralty announced today.

The main naval burden of the Allied landings had fallen up to the present upon the Anglo-French aircraft carrier force, with its accompanying close cover and escort, the Admiralty communique said.

Since the beginning of the week, the communique stated, naval aircraft from the carriers had delivered a succession of strikes on military objectives and naval targets amounting in all to upwards of 2,000 sorties.

Avoid Civilians

These operations, the communique went on, had gone entirely according to plan, been executed with great effect and efficiency, and had resulted in the loss of only one British life and two of our naval aircraft."

Nicosia, Nov. 6.

The greatest care had throughout been taken to avoid large numbers of civilians, the communique pointed out, and the Fleet Air Arm pilots prided themselves that they had fully achieved this object.

A top Israeli spokesman claimed tonight Israel lost only 100 killed and yielded "less than 20 prisoners" on its successful Sinai Desert campaign against Egypt.

Chief of Staff Major-Gen. Moshe Dayan cited the figures at a ceremony honouring the Israeli dead.

He said the Israeli offensive "dwarfed preparations for a destructive war against Israel led by Egypt."

At the same ceremony Premier David Ben Gurion described the Sinai Desert victory as "the largest and most brilliant military feat ever accomplished by the Jewish people and one of the outstanding military feats ever performed by any nation."

Struggle Not Over

Gen. Dayan claimed that two Egyptian Army divisions and armoured units attached to them were "crushed" in the Sinai Desert fighting. He said the Israeli troops took more than 5,000 prisoners.

The Chief of Staff warned the nation against complacency. He said the struggle was not over and the Israeli Defence Forces must remain on the alert "for possible tasks confronting them."—All Agencies.

POLISH MISSION TO RUSSIA

Paris, Nov. 6. A Polish Government mission will shortly go to Moscow to discuss "concrete problems" with Soviet leaders, the President of the Polish Council of State, Alexander Zawadzki said tonight.

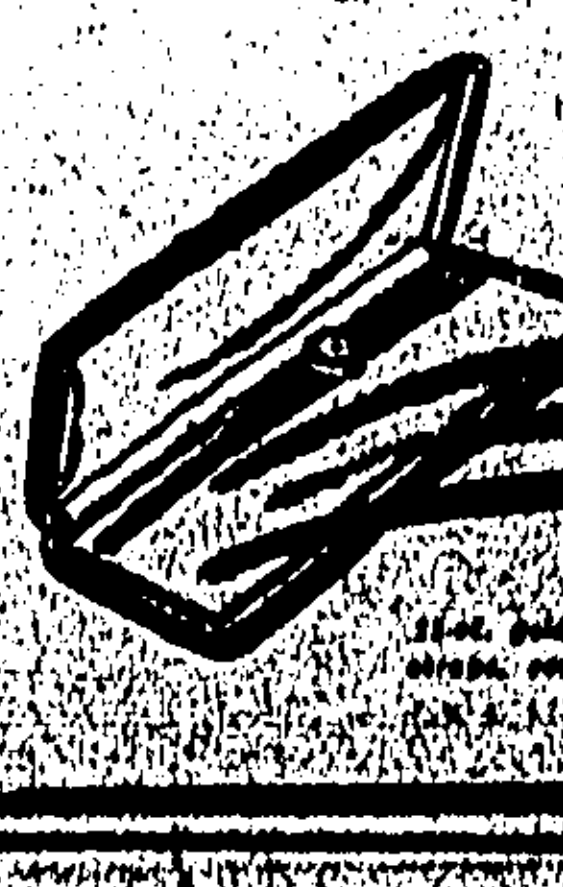

In a statement broadcast by Warsaw Radio, Zawadzki said that during the surprise visit to Warsaw last month of Soviet Communist chief, Nikita Khrushchev "we assured our Soviet comrades that their fears of Poland abandoning the Marxist-Leninist platform were unfounded."

Zawadzki said the lesson to be gathered from the disturbances in Hungary was that "after 12 years of the people's power, counter-revolution cannot raise its head with impunity."—France-Press.

YOUR BIRTHDAY... By STELLA

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 7

BORN today, you are a clever and quick-tempered. You are a real understanding of human beings and your work should have something to do with handling people. You have a keen sense of humor, you are a delightful company at all times. You have the ability to help others without even knowing it at the time. You must guard against being imposed upon or you will find that you are spending all your time solving problems for others while your own remain unsolved.

Your marriage should be a peaceful and contented one.

You enjoy activity and cannot be happy unless you are busy doing something all the time. You enjoy travelling, but at the same time you always will want a "home port" to which you can return. Your wandering days are apt to be confined to your earlier years, for as you grow older you tend to settle down.

You are rather more interested than some in the mysterious and the occult and might wish to make a serious study of it at some time in your life. Do not become too credulous but approach the subject from the scientific and experimental point of view. You have the gift of the written word and should be able to make good use of your imagination in fiction or dramatic writing.

Among those born on this date were: Margaret Leech, novelist; Royal S. Copeland, Peter Ten Byck and Andrew J. White, statesmen; Mme. Marie Curie, scientist; Robert Dale Owen, reformer; and Leatrice Joy, actress.

To find what the stars have in store for you tomorrow select your birthday star and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 8

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)—Study your intuition and take the lead in showing the way. You can accomplish a great deal with the right approach.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—There appears to be a real pattern of success forming in your life. Make rapid advances toward your goal.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)—An active day in which you may be a little more adventurous than usual and still reap excellent profits.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—Weigh business deals against liabilities and discover your true potential. Then work hard toward achievement.

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 21)—Excellent prospects for reaching your highest ambition. Aim at what you want and then go out after it.

ARIES (Mar. 22-Apr. 20)—If your health appears not to be at its best, seek medical advice. Without good health, nothing is really important.

Taurus (Apr. 21-May 21)—A fine day for starting any new enterprise, especially if it has to do with business or professional matters.

GEMINI (May 22-June 22)—Take the initiative. Aggressiveness toward a major objective is what you need. See that you bend every effort toward success.

CANCER (June 23-July 23)—If you feel you have earned it, now could be the time to ask for that raise! Try it anyway!

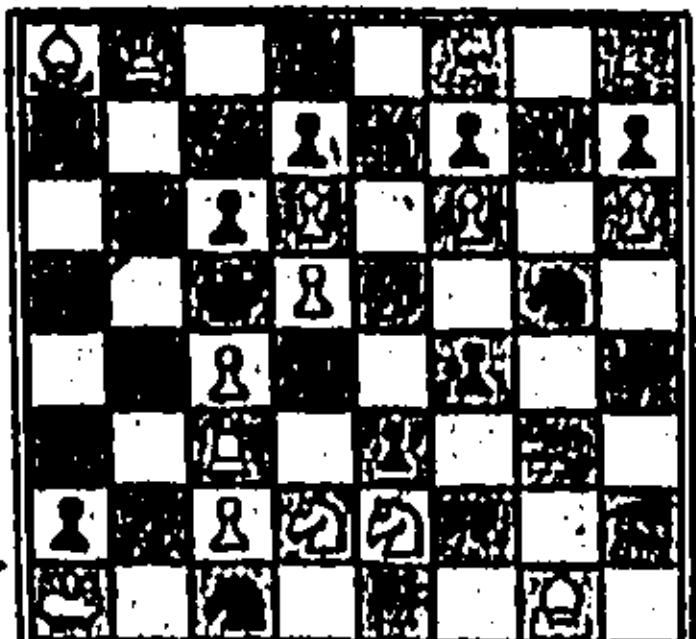

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—Open your eyes to opportunity and see that you get what is coming to you. Business interests show improvement.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—You can be a real adventurer today. There is romance in the air. If you want it, go out after it now.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)—Combine social and business aspects. The rewards should be more than satisfying.

Nose-bags for women

DEAR SIR,

How could a woman look her best in a nose-bag, however artfully designed? Moreover, conversation would be impossible, unless she kept on taking her head out of the bag every time she wanted to talk. Only the most poised and sophisticated women can do this without appearing ridiculous. A noted psychiatrist who has conducted experiments with managers fixed to restaurant walls, has found that the women tend to paw the ground impatiently.

HOW OYSTERS ARE SERVED IN DIFFERENT COUNTRIES

By IDA BAILEY ALLEN

"A BL over the world, wherever we travel, Madame," remarked the Chef, "oysters are gourmet foods."

"Remember, in Australia they were delicious served on the half shell with cock-tails, just as they serve them in England. In France they were served on the half shell with Chablis wine; in Italy we ate them served in a sandwich, with the raw oyster and lemon juice in one shell and caviar touched with cayenne in the other."

"And what about the United States, Chef?" I replied. "The Oyster Rockefeller of Antoine's in New Orleans, the oyster pie of Maine, the oyster roasts of Maryland, the pan-fried oysters of the oyster bar in the Grand Central restaurant in New York City are also excellent!"

"Right you are, Madame, must hasten also to pay tribute to the incomparable oyster of New England, for which you have given me the recipe."

"But I have one question, Madame. The stew is so substantial in itself, how would you plan a dinner around it?"

"That's very simple, Chef," I said. "With lots of stew, go easy on the other foods! Now let's star it at a do-it-easy family kitchen buffet."

Buffet Dinner

Oyster Stew Crackers
Potato-Egg-Celery Salad
Sliced Tomatoes
and Cucumbers
Coffee Tea Milk

All Measurements Are Level

Recipes Proportioned to Serve 4 to 6

Oyster Stew: Combine 1 qt. whole milk and 1 c. light cream or undiluted evaporated milk in a double boiler and heat. Add 2 tbs. butter, 1/4 tsp. salt and 1/4 tsp. pepper.

Meantime, heat 1 1/2 pts. shucked oysters in 1 1/2 c. boiling water until the edges curl. Add to the milk. Serve at once in bowls. Pass oyster crackers.

Blum Cake Squares: Measure 1/2 c. each butter or margarine, cream cheese and 1/2 tsp. salt into a mixing bowl. Blend until softened and smooth. Work in 1 1/2 c. already-sifted enriched flour.

Transfer to a floured surface. Roll to 1/3-in. thickness. Fit into an oiled 7x11-in. shallow pan.

On top, arrange rows of 1 lb. stoned, quartered fresh plums, skins left on. Pour over 1/2 c. commercial sour cream. Then sift over evenly 1/2 c. confectioner's sugar mixed with 1/2 tsp. cinnamon.

Bake in a moderate oven 375° F. about 3 min., or until the plums are tender and slightly browned.

Dust with 2 tbs. additional confectioner's sugar. Serve warm or cold, cut in squares, plain or with whipped cream.

The Chef's Oyster-Cocktail Sandwich

Toast 2 half-slices enriched bread for each person. Spread with sauce tartare laced with horseradish, chill sauce and 2 drops Tabasco.

On one slice, arrange 3 oysters, sautéed in butter, and a small leaf lettuce. Close the sandwich. Garnish with water-cress. Eat with knife and fork or out of hand.

Is Lack Of Femininity An Occupational Hazard?

By JEANNE D'ARCY

YOU can be a woman and not be feminine! That's the sad, awful truth and it was brought home to us emphatically by a very successful career girl we met.

A Big Flaw

Her appearance? Stunning! She was well-groomed from the top of her stylishly curled head to the toe of her expensive leather sandals. Her clothes couldn't have been more becoming. From the standpoint of colour and design, the pale blue dress she was wearing (sandals matched it) was perfection.

What was the flaw in this perfect picture? It was a complete lack of femininity. Oh, she looked fluffy and pretty but and this was the hitch—as soon as she opened her mouth she was anything but that!

We'd bet on this girl in a cage full of hungry lions. Poor animals, they'd never stand a chance. She could cope with anything and come out the victor.

She is a person who has every detail of her life—husband, job, social activities, friends, maid, housework, just everything—well-organized. What could be more depressing? We'd be willing to bet her husband would welcome just one evening that wasn't "scheduled." He'll never have it, however, for this unfortunate girl thinks like a timetable. She knows, and so does everyone around her, just what she—and they—will be doing every single second. She has gone a step beyond being well-organized and has become just plain bossy.

Working Personality

How did she get this way? We don't know, of course, but we rather suspect it's an occupational hazard. So often career girls have extremely demanding jobs. They work under tension, must be terribly efficient.

What happens? When 5 o'clock comes, they can't shed their working personality, so it goes along with them into private life. Pretty soon their social self is brisk, business-like, anything but feminine.

Household Hint

Choose fast colours. Non-fast dyes require cooler water, milder soap and shorter washing time than is necessary for effective cleansing.

Was It Just A Tall Tale?

—Did Punch Really Have A Balloon And Airplane?—

By MAX TRELL

"NOW, when I was very small," said Mr. Punch, "there was nothing that I liked better than going up in the air in my own private balloon."

Hearing this, everyone in the playroom turned to look at Mr. Punch in astonishment. Mr. Punch told very tall stories, which is the same as saying that his stories weren't as true as they should have been.

Knarf and Hand, the shadow children with the turned-about names, and Teddy, the Stuffed Bear, and Mary Jane, the Rag Doll and General Tin, the Tin Soldier, all started to speak at once. They all said one word: "Impossible!"

Two Airplanes

Mr. Punch just smiled. "Impossible?" he repeated. "Not at all. I had my own private balloon, it's the absolute truth. And if you want to know something, I had two private airplanes."

This was too much for everybody.

"It's not only impossible," said General Tin in a very stern voice. "It's absolutely impossible! No one except a prince could have a private balloon and two private airplanes."

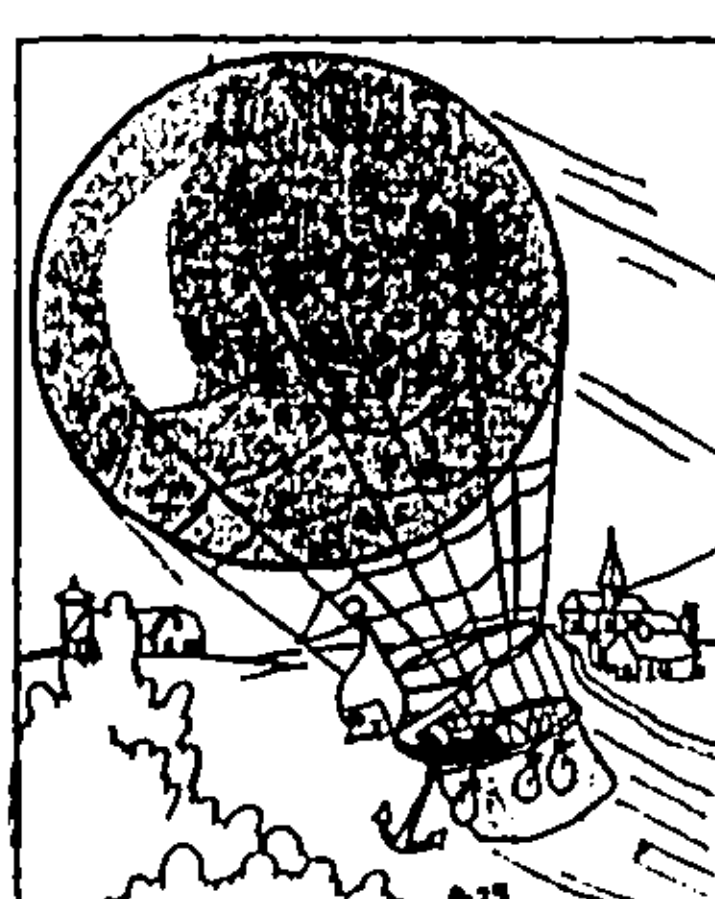

"And you, Mr. Punch, were no prince," said Teddy, the Stuffed Bear.

None of this seemed to bother Mr. Punch in the least. He kept on smiling more than ever.

"What you forget, my dear friends, is that I was very small—very, very small—when I had that private balloon and those two airplanes."

"Now just let me describe that private balloon."

"It was made out of a soap bubble with a basket made of cobweb. It was a lovely balloon! It sparkled in the sunlight and wore all the colours of the rainbow."

Punch used to sail over the fields in his balloon.

the air. It was as fast as lightning. When I came flying along every other plane disappeared from the sky. It was called the Hornet—because that's what it was, a hornet."

Everyone in the room was pleased with Mr. Punch's story of his private balloon and two private airplanes. Only General Tin was still doubtful.

"It seems to me, old man," he said to Mr. Punch, "that no matter how small you were when you were small, you never could have been small enough to ride in a soap-bubble balloon or on a dragonfly or hornet airplane. And yet, I envy you even for just thinking you could do such wonderful things."

Black And Shining

"The other one," said Mr. Punch, "was black and shining. It had powerful wings which hummed as they beat through

U.S. OLYMPIC SOCCER TEAM BEATEN 2-1 BY ALL-HONGKONG

By "TOUCHWOOD"

The visiting American Olympic soccer team failed to lower the colours of All-Hongkong but in their 2-1 defeat they rendered the Hongkong Football Association a service by bringing back the missing crowd that has been missing since the start of the Colony soccer season.

Yesterday, the visitors did not produce soccer of a spectacular class, nor did they produce any player of the calibre of Stanley Matthews, Ferenc Puskas or Kocsis. The Americans just played an ordinary straightforward game which seemed to please the crowd if we are to judge by the deafening cheers that echoed around the Hongkong Stadium.

The Americans were woefully weak in defence, they showed no accuracy in their shooting and in this match they had numerous opportunities to score, but their forwards Zerkusen, Looby, Wirth and Murphy, who were all left after the first half, failed to convert.

Goalkeeper Engelidel put up a very creditable performance when the All-Hongkong side attacked in force. Centre-forward Zerkusen, who looks well past 40 though only 26, was the schemer and mainstay of the American team.

Right-winger Murphy was always a danger man once he got possession of the ball and his speed made it all the more difficult for the All-Hongkong left full-backs to keep marking him.

The Colony players, who showed yesterday were Au Chi-yin, Mok Chun-wah, Ho Cheung-yau and Tang Sun Au. Chi-yin and Ho Cheung-yau, who have been given the Colony a comfortable free-goal lead had they not dilly-dallied in front of goal. Their over-dribbling not only deprived them of goals but gave their opponents the chance to launch up and eventually clear the ball.

ALMOST AMERICAN
The crowd were on their feet, cheering hysterically, as centre-

forward Zerkusen, of the American Olympic team, raced through to hammer the ball past a bewildered Tam Nai-huen for the first goal of the match.

This was in the fifth minute and the 1-0 lead that the visitors got was the result of a tap-back-to-goalkeeper attempt by the All-Hongkong right full-back, Szeto Yiu. Yiu's back-pass misfired and before the Colony custodian could gather the ball up, opportunity Zerkusen made no ceremony of it and placed the ball in the back of the net.

As the match progressed the vociferous cheers of the crowd turned to disgust as player after player from either team started missing numerous easy shots and some of the less easy ones.

The All-Hongkong players did not strike their form until after the 20th minute when the forward line moved well up to annoy their opponents. Au Chi-yin, Ho Cheung-yau, Yiu Cheuk-yin and Lau Chi-lam all had chances galore to net the equaliser but none of them managed to get the ball past the keeper.

When the interval arrived neither team was able to alter the 1-0 score on the board.

The Americans brought in several substitutes in the second half. Goalkeeper Coder was replaced by Engelidel, right-winger Murphy, who injured himself in a collision with Tam Nai-huen, had his place filled first by Packer and then by Carden.

There was only one change in the All-Hongkong side. Lau Chi-lam, who arrived late at the stadium due to a traffic jam, took over from Szeto Man and his presence in the second half added strength and thrust to the Colony forward line.

All-Hongkong tied the score at 1-1 in the 22nd minute when Lau Chi-lam's well-placed lob had Engelidel beaten all the way. After this it was All-Hongkong all the way and, seven minutes to full time, a Lau Chi-lam-Ho Cheung-yau-Mok Chun-wah combination ended the game with Mok Chi-lam scoring a lovely shot to give All-Hongkong a 2-1 win over the American Olympic team.

Spain & Holland Won't Compete At Melbourne

Madrid, Nov. 6.
Spain will not send her five-man team to the Melbourne Olympic Games because of the serious world situation, the government announced today.

The decision to withdraw from the Games was taken by Falange Party Minister Jose Luis Arrese and approved by the National Sports Council.

Arrese said Spanish athletes could not participate in Olympic competition while "the independence and dignity of sovereign peoples are being trampled."

He specifically cited Russia's "bloody" invasion of Hungary as the basis for his act.

No mention was made in today's announcement, released by the National Sports delegation, of last month's decision by the International Athletic Federation banning the radical "Spanish-style" whirling delivery of the javelin from use at the Olympics.

UNUSUAL RECORD

Lockhead Leamington FC have played eight Birmingham League matches this season, and have yet to win their first one. But they are unbeaten in five FA Cup ties and Birmingham Senior Cup matches.

UTILITY MAN

Aston Villa have dropped only two of their 11 recognised first eleven players this season—centre-forward Derek Pace and left-back Ray Rogers. In each case the player was sent down.

FIGHTING SCOT FOR MELBOURNE

Corporal Dick McTaggart, who leaves early this month for Australia to box for Britain in the Olympic Games, has a training bout with Cpl. Gwynn Floyd of Swansea (left) at the Royal Air Force station, Halton, Buckinghamshire.

Dick, who has been boxing for eleven of his 21 years, is now serving a five years' engagement in the catering branch of the RAF. He is the current ABA Lightweight Champion, is a member of the RAF boxing team, and has fought all over the world, including some Iron Curtain countries. Dick, a native of Dundee, Scotland, is one of six boxing brothers.—Reuterphoto.

FLOODLIGHT SQUABBLE

The Cost Is Not The Thing That Is Holding Bromwich Albion Back

Says ARCHIE QUICK

The biggest squabble for many a long year is going on in Birmingham among the League clubs of the district. It stems from West Bromwich Albion's refusal to instal floodlighting.

The other clubs where lights are fitted accuse West Bromwich of being selfish. Reason for this is that the duels between the Albion, Wolverhampton Wanderers, Aston Villa and Birmingham City are among the most attractive in the season's fixture list, and the other clubs want Albion to fall into line in order that there may be uniform late kick-offs or even evening matches—two factors to materially boost "gate" receipts.

Not unnaturally, the West Bromwich Board of Directors will have nothing to do with evening games on their opponents' grounds for the very good reason that their players have no experience of such conditions.

Why are Albion against the lighting scheme? Chairman Major Wilson Keys told me that his Director consider that better ground accommodation, players' benefits and possibly new players to strengthen an only half-successful team are items of greater importance than "lights." "When we are completely satisfied with our playing strength and when all our spectators are comfortably seated, then we may turn our thoughts to installing floodlights. The cost is not the thing that is holding us back. We want everybody under cover. That is our first objective."

A TALE OF WOE

While these big clubs have their sights set on raising "gates" from the 30,000 to the 40,000 mark, over on the outskirts of the big Midlands city there is a tale of woe from little Walsall. Seven times in their career have they had to apply to the Football League for re-election, four times in the last five years. They once kept their place by a last-minute desperation signing of Major Frank Buckley as manager, and survived on the other occasions because of the remarkably fine crowd support they have always enjoyed.

Now however, it looks like the end. Director Longmore has told me that the loyalty of the Walsall fans has been unswerving, but the competition of the big clubs is too great, and the club is not taking enough money to exist.

The Directors just cannot bear the burden any longer," he said. "We get good 'gates.' We need at least 2,000 more every home first eleven game."

So another League club looks like going to the wall, and the strange thing is they would be the first to do so for many, many years. It is a wonder how some of the others have managed to last.

Many years ago a Rugby League football was experimented with at the White City, London but this 13-a-side professional game flopped in the capital, as it did again later when taken to the suburbs. That there is a public for Rugby Union under the floodlights was proved when nearly 12,000 spectators, many of them from schools, turned up for Hartlequin's evening match with Cardiff.

True, no more attractive game could have been chosen for the 'Quins were unbeaten at home during their three years' tenure of the White City pitch, and the Welsh club, bristling with famous names, were undefeated this season. Against this attractiveness was the cold weather, but still the people thought it worth while to go along.

The result—Cardiff with a man injured won by 8-6, but only by the vehicle of a completed try five minutes from the end, after they had been trailing 3-6 before half time. Their proud undefeated record was saved by the genius of that finest of all stand-off halves, Cliff Morgan. It was he who manoeuvred the late opening through which his three-quarter lived to level the scores. Then the Cardiff full back converted and added the two vital points for victory.

TOUCH FINDING

Although the lights sometimes led to errors of judgment in handling and touch finding they acted to the spectacle. The Hartlequin Committee man told me that they hoped to play many such games at the White City this winter, thus adding to the club's finances and popularising the handling code to a wider public. Winter evening weather, of course, is a factor which may lead to more Rugby matches being cancelled than would be the case with Soccer games.

One player who was glad to hear the final whistle was Vaughan the Hartlequin forward. Not only did he play a strenuous part in this game but in the afternoon he had turned out as captain of Home Command against Technical Training Command in the RAF championship.

An England Selector said he was much impressed by the 'Quins full back Grant. He was so fast that he was able to assist his three-quarters without neglecting his full-back duties. On this form he is an England "possible." Nobody, however, could match the wizardry of Cliff Morgan. In attack and defence this great Welsh International was outstanding as ever.

It was an evening's entertainment that equalled anything Soccer, Athletics or Greyhound Racing can offer and has obviously come to stay even in the face of opposition from official dictators who label it with the tag of "commercialism."

Over The North Pole Airlift For Olympic Games Competitors

Stockholm, Nov. 6.
The Scandinavian Airline service will open its Olympic over-the-North-Pole airlift from Stockholm to Melbourne on Wednesday when one of its "Globe Express" airliners takes off from Bromma airport here with 74 Scandinavian Olympic athletes who are to compete in the Melbourne Olympic Games.

Among these athletes will be Denmark's former holder of the 1,500 Metres world record Gunnar Nielsen, the Finnish favourite for the 400 Metres sprint Valtteri Hellsten and Norwegian javelin champion Egil Danielsen.

With stops at Lulea, Ornskoldsvik, Umea, Uppsala, Stockholm, Helsinki, and London, the airline will cover the 20,000 kilometre journey at an average speed of 550 kilometres an hour. West German, Yugoslav and Austrian Olympic members will also travel to Melbourne by this polar air route.—France-Press.

AT VANCOUVER

Vancouver, Nov. 6.
Truck stars, carmen, the basketball team and a majority of officials will leave Vancouver on Saturday aboard the first of two Canadian Pacific airliners flying the Canadian Olympic team to the 1956 Games in Melbourne.

The swimming team and remaining athletes of the 120-member Canadian squad were to leave on the second flight on November 13. Including the Canadian team, CPA planned to fly athletes representing five countries to Australia within the next two weeks. The seven-member British Guiana team will leave Vancouver tomorrow. The 40-member Argentine team was due to arrive in Vancouver from Buenos Aires on Saturday and leave for Australia on Sunday.

Ten German Olympic athletes were to fly to Australia on the same flight as the second contingent of Canadians. Four English swimmers leave Vancouver on November 13.

Australian National Airways will fly all athletes from Sydney to Melbourne, site of the Olympics.—United Press.

"Tom Whittaker Bid For Me"

By STANLEY MATTHEWS

"I would have liked you at Highbury, Stan. I wish we would have done well together," Tom Whittaker often said that to me after a bid he had made was turned down by Blackpool.

He would have been a great boss. I always felt, when at Highbury and I often popped into his office for a chat when I was playing there. I was close to him when he trained the England team just before and after the war. I always will remember him as an efficient trainer and a football psychologist. He knew how to get the best out of everyone, and the player's welfare was his greatest concern.

I can see him now on that stifling hot day at the Hillyer Stadium in Berlin during the 1938 tour, when we thrashed the Germans 6-3.

TERRIFIC HEAT

The tension was heart-stopping, the heat terrific. The players were being affected by the heat and kept running to the touchline with a soaking wet sponge. He shouted to us: "Here, lads, have a go at this. It will refresh you."

My brother-in-law, Tommy Vallance, broke his leg playing for Arsenal in Paris. Tom Whittaker hardly left him. He called every day at the hospital to cheer him up, to give him all the latest Highbury news.

Tom did the same for Joe Mercer and other Arsenal players who were injured playing for the club. That was why they all loved him.

Football has never had a more popular official. But above all, Tom Whittaker knew his football—he could size up a player in a flash.

He will be remembered as one of the greatest men in soccer.

New Cars Start 'No Carburettor' Race

A big surprise was launched by General Motors recently by producing, after the clutchless car, the car without a carburettor.

In Detroit they announced that they are the first United States car manufacturers to bring out a fuel-injection engine for standard production-line cars.

This new, excitingly different form of carburation, which does away with the normal carburettor, is being fitted as standard equipment on the Chevrolet Corvette sports car.

But fuel injection is also being offered as an optional extra on the full range of Chevrolet saloon and convertible cars for 1957.

MORE POWER

Experts said that this new production car marks an important trend that may start a race among world car manufacturers to replace the conventional carburettor system with fuel injection.

How does it work? Instead of using a carburettor, a fuel injection pump vaporises the air-and-petrol mixture and sprays it directly into the combustion chamber of the cylinder. Each cylinder has the fuel injected through a separate nozzle.

And what are the advantages? Experts assess that direct fuel injection gives 10 to 15 per cent more power to the engine and 15 per cent cheaper running on petrol.

So far only racing cars have used fuel injection in Britain.

First to market fuel injection on a car were German Mercedes who fit it to their 170 brake-horsepower model 300S streamlined sports car. This has speeded well above 100 miles an hour.

I believe that within a few years all cars will be carburettorless.

NO MERCY IN THIS SOCCER JUNGLE TOUGHEST JOB IN SPORT IS RUNNING A BIG, MODERN LEAGUE CLUB

Says ALAN HOBY

"I can't take it any more," said Jimmy Seed when he gave up his manager's job at Charlton just over a month ago.

The other week that remark became suddenly loaded with new significance when I was told that my old friend Tom Whittaker of Arsenal had died at the early age of 59—worn out in the service of the game he loved so well.

For, believe me, there is no tougher or more exacting job in sport than running a big, modern League club—especially the plum job of all like Arsenal.

You need nerves of iron and a constitution like steel to survive in the merciless jungle of professional soccer.

Football is full of men who either broke their health or fused their nervous systems trying to walk the mental tight-rope which is the average manager's lot.

I think of the silver-haired Jimmy Seed who, before he quit Charlton last September, couldn't sleep at nights.

I think of brilliant Arthur Rowe who after leading Spurs to the highest pinnacle of glory, had two serious breakdowns.

Fortunately, Arthur is now completely restored to fitness.

I think of the late, great Herbert Chapman who, in Tom Whittaker's own words, "worked himself to death for Arsenal."

SOUL OF KINDNESS

Finally, I think of Tom himself, bulky, genial, and the soul of kindness: a man who always carried the burden for everyone; who always found time to listen to other people's troubles.

Even when he was ill he worked and worked for Arsenal until at last sheer nervous exhaustion drove him into hospital.

No wonder George Allison, Arsenal manager for 13 years before Tom took over, has said: "When I gave up I went home and did nothing for six weeks. I was so exhausted."

Although some clubs pay good salaries, even £3,000 a year is chicken-feed when you consider the headaches, the worry, and behind-the-scenes "niggling" that many managers have to face—not only from the directors but from fans too.

Indeed, compared with the fat sums picked up by big business types, the majority of club chiefs earn a miserable pittance, and live a miserable life.

As for some of the smaller clubs, outfits where the manager is a mixture of trainer, coach, scout, wet nurse, and tame psychologist, a dustman is better off.

All round, managers are the whipping boys of League soccer.

When their club is winning they are heroes with halos.

When they hit a losing streak they are has-beens who've had it!

'MENTAL FLOGGING'

Either way they can never entirely liberate themselves from what manager Andy Beattie once described as "the mental flogging of a nine-month season."

For if they're not worrying how to stave off relegation they're thrashing their brains how to stay on top!

Oh, I know all about Matt Busby, "maestro" of Manchester United, Joe Smith, long-term boss of Blackpool, and Bill Murray who has been 17 years with Sunderland.

But for every superman there are 10 scoundrels. Indeed, in the last three seasons alone, some 40 clubs have changed leaders.

Be a manager? I wouldn't be one even if I was offered a millionaire's expense account for salary! For in football's jungle only results count.

How well I remember that ugly Saturday when, amid howls of "Resign" and "Get out," one traitor Fulham man took his first in the face of team manager Bill Dodgin as he was walking down the touch-line.

But Bill, now with Brentford, never faltered. To his eternal credit he just walked on, smiling.

It was this same Bill Dodgin who was forced to transfer his own son from Fulham to Arsenal—"because some of the crowd were making his life miserable trying to get at me through him," he said afterwards.

And while we're on the subject of managerial wear-and-tear, what about 100 per center Stan Cullis, of Wolves, who literally lives every second of every game?

It was only last August at Luton, after Wolves had been beaten by a disputed goal, that Stan was involved in an angry scene with Luton director Tom Hodgson. Fortunately, tempers soon cooled, and everyone shook hands.

Flery Stan—not that I blame him—also had a rumus or two with referees. During a particularly hectic Cup tie last year he was rebuked by referee J. W. Hunt "for coaching from the line."

Managers, it seems, are never supposed to be human or have feelings.

EXTRAORDINARY CASE

But perhaps the most extraordinary case concerns Fulham's Duggie Livingstone, formerly full-back with Glasgow Celtic, Everton, and Aberdeen.

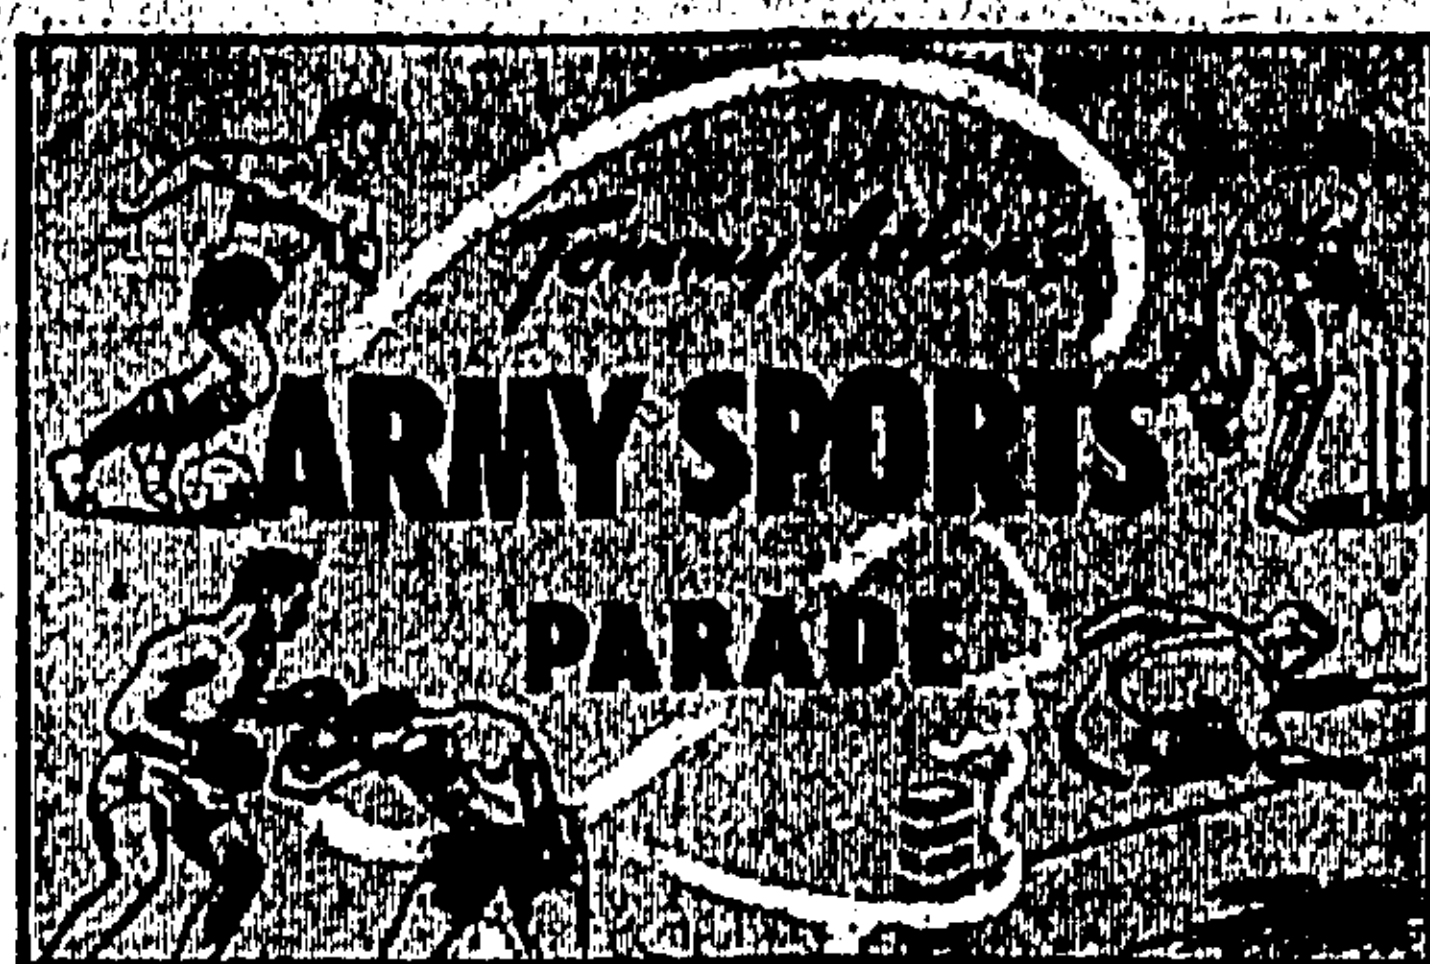

Four days after Newcastle had won the Cup at Wembley, in 1955, Livingstone, then the "Geordies" manager, was told that team selection had been taken out of his hands!

Afterwards he was gradually relieved of all his duties "until there was nothing left for me to do."

In the end, he agreed to cancel his £1,500 a year contract although it still had two years to run.

Today professional football is not only the nation's largest entertainment industry: it is a mammoth mixture of big business and show business in which the manager is judged solely on the crowds and cash he pulls through the box-office. And yet what do they say? It's all in the GAME.

(—London Express Service.) (COPYRIGHT)

The spot of honour this week is awarded to two grand sportsmen, Craftsman Walter Dinning, REME, and Gunner John McMenami, RA, for giving a display of boxing skill, courage, and sportsmanship, well above average, when they met at the Hongkong Amateur Boxing Association's first open meeting of the season.

Walter Dinning comes from Rosyth, Scotland, where he boxed for the Woodside Amateur BC and soon made his mark in the 1stc world. The reigning South-East Asian Champion has boxed for Scotland against Ireland, and represented the Army against both Ireland and London.

Aged 23, he has recently married. It must be recent because he quoted to us his wedding date, and his wife is a keen follower of boxing, but like most wives she hates watching her husband being knocked about, in his case she hasn't very much to worry about.

Scotland not only exports very good Engineers but, it seems, she also produces and sends abroad some very good boxers. John McMenami, the other half of this recent battle, also hails from the North of the Border. A native of Stirling, he has boxed from the age of eleven for the Stirling Boys' Club, and the Air Training Corps, and has held the British ATC Championship and five Scottish championships at welterweight during recent years.

Both these lads will be here for the full season and boxing fans can look forward to at least two further clashes between these talented lads, in the Army and Colony Championships.

Their bout opened quietly with both trying to weigh in the other, but by mid-round they had opened up. Dinning was perhaps the more polished and scientific, with McMenami rugged and a shade the harder puncher.

Round two produced another hard hitting tactical battle, severe punishment being given and taken, while round three followed the same course, with McMenami scoring more frequently to the body and slowing Dinning down.

The verdict met with a mixed reception, but the majority appeared to agree with the judges. Such was the standard of skill and sportsmanship that all the referee had to do in this contest was to check the score cards.

Whilst the spotlight was on the main bout, every prairie must be given to the Service boxers taking part. All were very fit, and had obviously put a lot of work into their training.

CROWD PLEASER

A crowd pleaser between Pte. Rodgers and Gunner Greenham, brought down the house. Greenham, although outclassed in the later stages of their bout, simply refused to go down and stay down, and the crowd, ever ready to demonstrate their appreciation of courage and determination, gave him a greater ovation than that afforded the winner.

The Smith-O'Connor heavyweight class did not produce much boxing skill but held the interest, and the crowd were not disappointed. Smith brought over a lovely cross in the second round to rob O'Connor of any further interest in the proceedings.

Pte. Smyth, Pte. Scott, and Gunner Hadley lost narrowly to Chinese opponents, and with this experience, and a little more training, it is probable that these results will be reversed.

A very big "Thank You" to all boxers, the organisers, and officials for an excellent evening's sport, and I am sure many are already looking forward to next month's bill.

Still on the subject of boxing the 1st Northamptonshire Regiment held a successful novice tournament during last week at which it seemed the large majority of the Battalion took part. The standard was very high, and the prize money, a very good side for the Team Championships later in the season.

The finals, held by kind permission of the Commanding Officer, Lieut. Colonel E. M. Goodale, DSO before a large and very appreciative audience, produced real boxing skill in many of the contests. In what was the best bout of the evening, Pte. Littlemore gained a narrow points victory over Pte. Phoenix in the Lightweight final, and it will not be long before the boxing public will see one or both of these boys in action.

DEPARTURES

Three notable Army sportsmen left the Colony during the week and Army Football circles will miss the "witness" of their prowess. They have left for

PROSPECTS FOR THE HURDLES AT MELBOURNE— AMERICA OUT ON HER OWN

By HAROLD ABRAHAM

On two occasions only has the United States failed to win gold medals in either the 110 Metres or 400 Metres Hurdles, and all four non-American victories have been by British athletes.

In 1920 at Antwerp the Canadian Earl Thomson (the first man to beat 15 sec. for the 110 Metres hurdles) won, and in 1928 the South African, Syd Atkinson, who had finished second four years earlier, was successful.

In the 400 Metres Hurdles in 1928, the Marquess of Exeter, then Lord Burghley, beat the United States world record-holder to give Britain her only gold medal ever in this event, while four years later Robert Tisdall from Eire, one of the finest all-round athletes it has ever been my privilege to know, again beat the American world record-holder.

In the last two Olympics, the United States have placed the first three in the 110 Metres hurdles, and there seems every likelihood that they will do the same this year.

A WORLD RECORD
All three of their representatives, Jack Davis, Lee Calhoun, and Joel Shankle, have frequently beaten 14 seconds. Davis (who finished second to Dillard at Helsinki) set up a world record of 13.4 seconds.

The rest of the world really has nothing serious to offer. Weinberg of Australia, who finished sixth at Helsinki, is still competing, and so is the Russian Bulanchik (who finished fourth). A young German, Lauer, was recently timed to do 13.8 seconds—a new European record.

From Great Britain, Peter Hildroth and Jack Parker, who represented us last time, will go to Melbourne and I think one of them might reach the final—and no mean performance if they do.

At Helsinki in 1952 one American only reached the final of the 400 Metres hurdles, Charley Moore, but he beat the Olympic record by 3/10 second and finished four yards ahead of the Russian, Litvich.

Glenn Davis won the American title in 49.8 seconds, which made the previous world record of 50.4 seconds set up by Litvich look rather slow. Hard in Davis's heels was Eddie Southern 2/10 second behind. These two seem pretty set for Olympic honours.

But who will be third? Only the Russians Ljlin and Umev have beaten 57.0 seconds. They both should reach the final.

THE FIRST TIME

Farrell, Kario and Shaw, are not quite in this class and great if one of them reaches the final—a possibility but not, I fear, a probability—it will be the first time an Englishman has done so since Los Angeles.

Steepchasing, though one of the oldest sports in Great Britain, has grown in popularity since World War II. The first steepchase event in the Olympics over the new recognised distance of 3,000 metres was won by Percy Hodges of Great Britain in ten minutes. For the next 42 years winners came from Finland and Sweden, then from the United States, though with a Russian next and John Dalsey, one of our three competitors at Melbourne, third. For the first time nine minutes was beaten and by the first six to finish.

Here is an event which seems likely to end up with a European as Olympic champion. Twice this year the world record has been bettered. First the Russian Rehtschin took two-fifths of a second off the world record time of Chrastka of Poland (8min. 40.2sec.) made last year. Within a week or two, the European champion Rozsnyol (Hungary) removed another nine seconds.

Three of the athletes who finished in the first six at Helsinki—Aahenteller of USA, Rintanen of Finland, and John Dalsey of Great Britain, will be at Melbourne. Dalsey will be partnered by Eric Shirley and Chris Brasher, and Great Britain has hopes of a place in the first three.

Now Is The Time For League Action —Internationally

By BOB FERRIER

It is my heretical belief that in the past 35 years the only time England had a team worthy to challenge the soccer world was in the period 1939-47—and they were never allowed to prove it.

Between the wars the Scots were fundamentally better, their instinctive technique of smooth, sleek-patterned play being sustained by such as Morton, James, Gallacher and Tommy Whicker.

Since the war, the FA have swept away much of the traditional approach to the game by plunging into full international competition. But there still remains a massive reactionary redoubt.

The Football League sits in its provincial castle in proud Preston and thunders with a decedent Victorianism: "The League has lasted this way for 78 years—it will go on this way."

ISOLATIONISM

Nowhere has their isolationism been more blatant than last season, when Chelsea were banned from taking part in the European Champions' Cup. At a time when most clubs and the sports' entire public see the need for more stimulating and different competition, the League sees nothing, hears nothing, does nothing.

There remain men of vision in the game.

Cullis at Wolverhampton wants to try Saturday evening football, so far with little success. Matt Busby, of Manchester United, defied the League and accepted the Europe Cup invitation and already in two home matches, he has played to 120,000 spectators! Busby knows what his customers want.

Sir Stanley Rous sits in his cyrie in Lancaster Gate and visualises an England-Scotland exhibition match in New York, with players flying from their Saturday League games, playing Sunday, returning in ample time for their club commitments.

MILLIONS WATCH

He sees only some 68,000 at a Wembley Cup Final, but millions watching the match in comfortable cinemas showing direct televised films. He knows that a European League of some kind is inevitable.

One thing is sure. It will be started with or without the English.

So now is the time for the Football League to put its house in order. Now is the handicap difference, starting at 1.30 p.m. You mere males are reminded that in the last similar struggle the charmers were only three-quarters of a point behind. Go to it, chaps.

Tommy Atkins Mark I. In this column last week, I gave you news of his "disposal" after three years on parade.

The Mark II version hopes that his efforts will be as well received, and that his stay with you will be as lengthy.

Not having quite as much interest as the world like, he would prefer to have news and views on Army sports and a business from you, and I am sure you will be most helpful.

WATCH ON RHINE—NEW STYLE
Royal Navy Starts
Second Decade

Krefeld, West Germany, Nov. 6.
The Royal Navy is starting the second decade of its watch on the Rhine which began as an Occupation task in 1946 and is now part of the North Atlantic Treaty Organisation's defence system.

Twelve launches and five landing craft make up the present strength of the British Rhine Squadron, based on the industrial river city of Krefeld. They patrol about 75 miles of the Rhine, from north of Cologne to the Dutch frontier. Belgium, French and United States Squadrons patrol a further 300 miles south to the Swiss border.

The flagship of the British Squadron, a trim 90-foot motor launch which will do 13 knots, was once the gift of the city of Hamburg to Hitler's Air Force
Chief Marshal Hermann Goering.
She was named Karin II, after his first Swedish wife.

The duck-shooting seat on the vessel's forecastle took account of Goering's proportions. It is about three feet three inches wide.

A new brass plate in the wheelhouse gives the boat's official British title: Motor Launch 6021. But the launch has been unofficially re-named
"Prince Charles," the name now painted on her bows, on her funnels and on her small dunghy.

The Prince Charles, which Captain E. Hugh Cartwright, RN, the Squadron's commanding officer, uses as a floating manoeuvre headquarters, has a German crew, including several holders of the Iron Cross and a polite and efficient steward who used to serve in the Waffen SS.
Hitler's elite corps.

Captain Cartwright who comes from Looe, in Cornwall, is one of the few Royal Navy men, in his own Squadron, The deck crew of the launch, his tributaries by dark, covering about 20 miles a night and bivouacking by day.

One of the Squadron's main tasks is to get to know the river by yard, and also the officials of the German river authorities who for local knowledge and liaison could be invaluable in the event of war.

National service officers, aged 19 or 20, are given command of some of the launches, each with a crew of six. They have to learn the wiles of the strong Rhine currents, varying from about four to about six miles per hour.

They must follow closely, too,
the winding dredged channels in the river, in many parts is no deeper than six feet six inches and must know its special navigational rules.

One Royal Marine officer now learning the tricks of Rhine navigation is 27-year-old Lieutenant P.L.P. Gunn, of Three Legged Cross, Wimborne, Dorset, who recently took command of Panther, one of the launches, an 80-foot diesel-powered boat built in Denmark for the Germans in 1940.

S. Africa
May Divert
A River

Pretoria, Nov. 6.
An irrigation engineer's dream of diverting the surplus water of the Orange River into the Great Fish River through a 50-mile tunnel has advanced a step towards reality.

The Minister of Water Affairs, Mr. P. O. Sauer, has referred the project to the Natural Resources Development
Council for investigation.

Originally the cost of the scheme, which would be the biggest irrigation project ever attempted in South Africa, was estimated at £17,500,000, but because of an increase in costs
since its conception, the scheme would work out at some millions of pounds more—probably at least £20,000,000 altogether.

MAIN FEATURE

The main feature of the project is the construction, costing at least £10,000,000, of a tunnel which irrigation engineers estimate will divert for conservation 1,000,000 acre-feet of water a year.

The water will be led to the tunnel by about five miles of canal, starting at the farm
Doompoort, just north of Ventersdorp.

Some of the water leaving the far end of the tunnel will be drawn off by two canals, one going in the direction of Conway and the other towards Hohneyr, both in the Cape.

The bulk of the water will pass down the Theebouw Spruit into the Great Brak River, thence to the existing dam at Grassridge.

Water for the Lower Sunday's River will be passed down the Great Fish River, and will be conveyed by a canal and a short tunnel to the Little Fish River, entering it just below Somerset
East.—China Mail Special.

MEAL BREAK
BARBERS

Sydney, Nov. 6.
Popular buy in Sydney families where there are boys is a haircutting kit, and popular man in any factory is one prepared to cut hair in the meal-hour break as a sideline to his factory work.

With hair cut price control ended, the new rates are expected to be 5s for men (rise of 1s) and 3s 6d for boys (rise of 8d).
Hairdressers, forced to take factory jobs when earlier rises forced them
out of saloon employment, are making handsome
"perks" from meal-break
crops, with their customers sitting on upended cases.—

Joy Ride In Funeral Car

Lisbon, Nov. 6.
Adelino Lopes dos Santos
Coelho and nine friends, seven men and two girls, decided to have some fun one evening, so they borrowed a funeral car owned by Coelho's employer, a Lisbon undertaker.

They went to Sacavem, a village in Lisbon outskirts, where they had a good supper with good wine.

At four in the morning while returning to Lisbon the car skidded and crashed against a street. Coelho was killed, one of the girls and a man were badly injured and the others
slightly injured.—China Mail
Special.

Athens, Nov. 6.
Pantelis Kikoulis, who has been arrested here, escaped from Vourla prison with 27 other Communists in June, 1955.

He had been sentenced to death for Civil War crimes and also accused of espionage.—

STONE AGE
DWELLING

Copenhagen, Nov. 6.
A 6,000 year old Stone Age dwelling site has been founded at Hesselbjerg, near Nordmølle in North Jutland.

Hundreds of destroyed flint tools, oyster shells, deer antlers and aurochs bones were uncovered on a kitchen "middens."

The lowest layer dates from about 6,000 years ago. At a later period the site had advanced and covered the site as witnessed by an 11 centimetres (about four inches) layer of small shells. Above this were found a number of fine flint tools witnessing to the re-occupation of the site again at a much later date.—China Mail

Colgate-Palmolive
Co. Celebrating
150th Anniversary

The Colgate-Palmolive Company now celebrating its 150th anniversary, represents an outgrowth of three firms: The Palmolive Company, Peet Brothers Company and Colgate & Company.

The business was established in 1806 in a small shop at No. 6 Dutch Street, New York. Its founder, 23-year-old William Colgate, faced a difficult problem: nearly all cleansing materials were manufactured at home. Few housewives ever bought soap.

But William Colgate compounded a product not only of fat and alkalis—as all soap was in those days—but added rare essences and soothing oils.
Then he offered something else
new—to deliver the product to the customers' homes.

The firm grew fast. In 1817, Colgate was advertising his soap in newspapers. In 1847, the Colgate plant was moved across the river to Jersey City,
New Jersey.

The business passed from father to son, from generation to generation. The business was incorporated in 1908.

Meanwhile at the peak of the Civil War in 1864, B. J.
Johnson opened a soap plant in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. Soon
the firm became one of the largest producers of soap in the Midwest. A chemical laboratory was opened for experimentation and the development of new products—one of the first of the kind in the nation.

The famous Palmolive soap was developed in the 1890's by Caleb Johnson, son of the owner and a chemist by profession. It was a floating soap—not the product
as it is known today.

FIRST MACHINE

In 1904, young Johnson purchased one of the first French mangle machines ever seen in the U.S., and the firm began to manufacture a hardmilled Palmolive soap in the form it is sold today. The brand swept across the country and with it the Palmolive advertising slogan "For that schoolgirl complexion."

Within three years Palmolive was being exported to England and, shortly afterward, to nearly every country in the world.

In 1917, the firm changed its name to The Palmolive Company.

The third ancestor of the Colgate-Palmolive organization
—Peet Brothers Company—was started in Kansas City in 1872.
The three Peet Brothers worked alone in the plant making the soap, cutting it into bars and selling it directly to housewives.
In time, modern selling and distributing methods were introduced, a branch plant was established in California, and the firm became one of the leaders in the soap industry of the West.

The present company was incorporated in 1923 in Delaware as The Palmolive Company. The first merger leading to what today is the Colgate-Palmolive Company took place in 1929
when The Palmolive Company joined with the Peet Brothers firm. The new company took the name of The Palmolive-Peet Company.

MERGER

In 1928, the new firm merged with Colgate & Company, forming the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Company. The corporate title of the company was changed to Colgate-Palmolive Company in 1938.

Today, the Company is one of the world's leading producers of soaps, synthetic detergents and toilet articles. Colgate-Palmolive brands are sold in practically every country of the free world through the domestic organization and subsidiaries located in 31 foreign countries.
World-wide sales are approaching $500,000,000 annually. The Company has a long history of profitable operations—dividends have been paid in every year since 1895.

World headquarters are located in the new Colgate-Palmolive Building in New York City. Domestic plants are located at Jersey City, New Jersey; Jeffersonville, Indiana;
Kansas City, Kansas; and Berkeley, California. Principal foreign subsidiaries also have local manufacturing facilities.

Refused TB
Treatment
—Fined

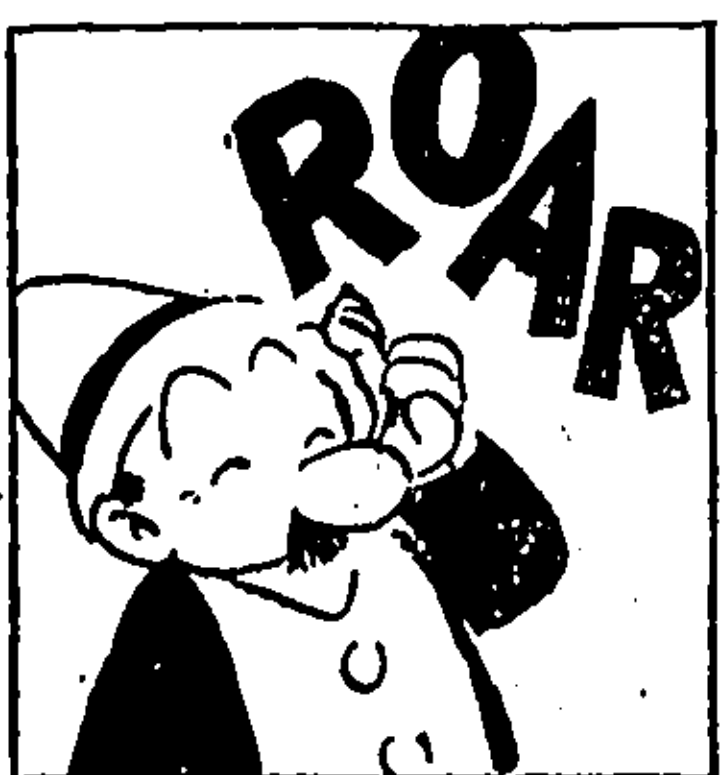

Wellington, Nov. 6.
What is believed to be the first case of its kind in New Zealand under the Tuberculosis Act of 1948, a Hokitika resident, was fined £5 for failing to attend a clinic for treatment.

"The campaign for the suppression of tuberculosis in New Zealand has for its aim not only the care of the sufferer but the protection of all members of the Community," said the magistrate convicting him.—China Mail

LONDON OIL STOCKS TUMBLE

London, Nov. 6. Oil stocks tumbled on the London Stock Exchange today in the wake of the worsening international crisis.

After the market closed yesterday, oil stocks were bid up sharply in the belief the Middle East fighting had stopped. They were hammered down today. Royal Dutch fell 30 shillings to £100 1/2. British Petroleum fell eight shillings. Shell Oil and Anglo-Egyptian fell five shillings each and Shell nearly four shillings. All were a net loss. Suez Canal Co. shares also fell into a wave of selling, losing £2 1/2 to £62.

Blue chips industrial issues were quiet and irregular.

The market ignored the US presidential election. It had only one interest, the Middle East.

There was heavy selling of bonds from the Continent. British Government bonds were down around £1 16 1/4 to £1 17 1/4.

London Copper And Lead

London, Nov. 6. The copper and lead markets were steady and the zinc market was firm. Prices closed at the end of the official morning session as follows:
